Congratulations on achieving the HFMA Certified Revenue Cycle Representative (CRCR) certification. Obtaining this certification demonstrates that you have mastered a body of knowledge within your practice area.

In recognition of your accomplishment, you will receive an HFMA digital badge - the CRCR digital badge will contain metadata describing your qualifications and HFMA certification credentials.

Be on the lookout for an email invitation from Credly (HFMA's badging platform partner) with your opportunity to claim and download your CRCR certification badge. You can display the badge in your email signature, electronic resume and on social sites like LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter.

In addition to this, you may also download a personalized certificate, allowing your peers and colleagues to be aware of your success in achieving this certification.

Maintenance is required for the Certified Revenue Cycle Representative (CRCR) certification. As a CRCR you must maintain the certification by taking a 50-question exam every 2 years. There is a nominal fee for recertification for non-members. Reminders will be sent closer to your recertification date.

This certification is an important achievement as you develop your career. We sincerely hope that you are considering next steps for career development and that you will look to HFMA resources to assist you in that process. You can view HFMA membership and resource information at www.hfma.org.

Please contact HFMA's Career Services Department with any questions at (800) 252-4362.

Again, congratulations on this important achievement.

Sincerely,

Todd Nelson, FHFMA, MBA
